9 Miles of Pavement Opened

Regaining Local Trade Area

Yesterday the State Highway Department opened to traffic nine miles of blacktop pavement on the Lewisville highway (No. 29 South) from the L. & A. underpass project to the junction with the side-road to Patmos, only three miles from the LaFayette county line.

Because of the intense local interest in this road, over a great many years, I suppose we are justified in forgetting the war for a moment to talk about trade territories and the manner in which highways affect them.

U. S. Warplanes Beat Off Raid on Chungking

—War in Pacific

Chungking, July 27 — (AP) — Chungking had its first air raid alarm in eleven months late today, but United States warplanes roared out to meet the enemy and the Japanese failed to reach the city.

The alarm sounded at 7:10 p. m. (7:10 a. m., E. W. T.), when the Chinese Army reported that a Japanese raiding force had crossed the border of Szechwan province, headed for Chungking.

Whether the American planes actually engaged the Japanese was not immediately known.

The air clear was sounded at 9:15 p. m.

For the last three years Chungking has been subjected to heavy raids from mid-May, when the spring fogs end, to September, this being known as "the bombing season."

This year, however, the American Volunteer Group and later the U. S. Army Air Force in China have prevented the Japanese from approaching the capital.

The Chinese High Command reported continued fighting in eastern Kiangsi province, where the Chinese are trying to expand the section of the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway which they recently have recaptured from the Japanese.

The communists said that fighting was going on south of Yintan, retaken late last week, and that Chinese pressure on Kweiiki, one of the principal stations on the mid-section of the railway, was increasing. A successful Chinese attack northeast of Shanghai also was reported.

Commandos Raid Jap Bases

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Australia, July 27 — (AP) — Jungle wise allied patrols clashed with the Japanese during the week end on the Papuan peninsula of New Guinea in the first land action of that new invasion theater as Allied planes continued to blast enemy bases there and on other occupied islands north of Australia.

The Japanese struck back with a three-plane raid upon Darwin last night, their second raid in as many nights. They bombed Townsville, Australia's "capital of the north" on the northeast coast, Saturday night in their deepest penetration yet of this country. None of the enemy attacks caused serious damage, a communiqué said.

General MacArthur's headquarters said the land skirmishing on the Papuan peninsula, described as light, occurred at Awala, about 25 miles inland from Buna, point on the coast near where the Japanese landed last Wednesday.

"The communiqué told also of another clash between tough Allied outpost forces and the Japanese recently at Mubo near Salamaua, 150 miles north of Buna, where 60 Japanese were killed in a thwarted patrol attack upon the Allied-held village. This enemy attack followed an Allied commando swoop early this month on Salamaua in which another 60 Japanese were killed.

Allied airmen, meanwhile, kept up their assaults on the Gona Mission-Buna sector, dumping their bombs among anti-aircraft and machine-gun batteries, food stores and ammunition dumps. The communiqué described the destructive attacks as "continual." One Japanese fighter was downed and the Allies lost two planes in these operations.

In the weekend surge of activity other allied planes raided Kieta on Bougainville island, in the Solomon group, and Buka and Sohona islands in the Buka passage north of Bougainville.

Negroes Seek to Vote; Candidate Campaigns Close

Little Rock, July 27 — (AP) — Bitter last minute recriminations among candidates and completion of organized plans by a Negro group to seek democratic primary voting privileges today closed out Arkansas' limping war - marred political campaign.

Without disclosing the number of voters—possibly fewer than 200,000 of the more than 300,000 qualified—will go the polls tomorrow to express their preference in all contests, national, state, county and township, in which there are more than two rivals for any one position.

A mass meeting at a Negro dance hall in the heart of Little Rock's Negro business district late Sunday heard Dr. J. M. Robinson, president of the Arkansas Negro Democratic Association, assert that members of his race would attempt to vote only for federal candidates in tomorrow's primary and anticipated success.

"I do not think there will be any trouble," he commented, "I don't anticipate any denial (of the ballot)."

However, he cautioned Negroes: "If any (election) judge denies you the right to vote, I suggest that you bow politely and leave the booth without ado."

Rules of the Arkansas Democratic party restrict membership to white electors and high party officials said decision whether Negroes could vote in the primary would rest with the individual judges and clerks "who are supposed to know the rules."

Eleventh hour political advertisements his morning in several major races showed personalities to fore in a manner reminiscent of pre-war elections.

In the Fifth District (central Arkansas) congressional fight, the racial issue was injected without reference to the local campaign to seek party privileges for Negroes.

Lieut. Gov. Bob Bailey of Russellville, in huge ads, challenged Brooks Hays, former farm security administration official, for his participation in the 1938 meeting of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare at Birmingham, Ala., at which a controversial "Jim Crow" resolution was adopted. Hays, in rebuttal, denied he was present on the day the resolution was adopted.

Governor Adkins, seeking re-nomination for a second term, published his first political advertisement of the campaign—an appeal for a large turnout of voters.

The four-man campaign for the U. S. senate continued along the lines developed early with the contestants arranging final speeches tonight.

Congressman Clyde Ellis of Bentonville, because of the death of his mother-in-law, cancelled a Little Rock rally but announced he would deliver a radio speech. Congressman Dave Terry of Little Rock scheduled a rally at MacArthur Park here while former Congressman John L. McClellan will make a radio appeal tomorrow morning. Attorney General Jack Holt returned to his home town of Harrison for a final speech to be broadcast from transcription to tomorrow.

Associated Press member newspapers in every section of the state completed preparations for their unofficial returns through their Little Rock bureau.

More Than 600 British Planes Bomb German Industries at Hamburg

London, July 27 — The big port of Hamburg, Germany's second largest city and greatest submarine building center, was hit hard last night by the Royal Air Force in its heaviest assault on the Reich since the 1,000 - plane bombing of Bremen late last month.

Without disclosing the number of bombers participating in the attack — the sixth on Hamburg this year and the 31st since the war began — a communiqué announced that 29 of the raiders failed to return.

(On the basis of losses of slightly under five per cent, which the British have reported as the cost of similar recent heavy raids, this would suggest a striking force of at least 600 planes.)

The communiqué said a "very strong force" attacked the city of 1,700,000 population whose Blohm and Voss shipyards alone are said to have a capacity to build 25 U. S. boats at a time, and whose war industries, working day and night, include oil refineries, explosives works and a big seaplane factory.

(The German high command reported "fairly heavy civilian casualties" in the raid on Hamburg and added that "a number of buildings, almost all in residential quarters, were destroyed or damaged.")

(Night fighters, anti - aircraft artillery, naval guns and patrol boats brought down 37 or five attacking aircraft," the Berlin communiqué said.)

German raiders, striking at England out of the low clouds of the early morning, bombed 23 areas, including one within 50 miles of London.

Two brief day light alerts were sounded in the capital, and for the first time in many months work-bound resident soft inland communities saw bombers marked with the black cross sweep low to the attack, then dodge back into the clouds with aircraft fire around them and British fighters roaring in pursuit.

The German bombers, for the most part operating singly, machine - gunned streets and houses and dropped bombs on western England, the south, the Midlands, the east coast, and towns and villages of east Anglia.

Casualties (their number not disclosed) mounted with late reports of persons trapped in the wreckage of their homes or dug out by sweating rescue crews.

A special communiqué issued by Major Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander of U. S. Army air forces in the European theater, disclosed that seven American fliers accompanied RAF fighter squadrons in a series of daylight sweeps over northern France yesterday, during which nine of Germany's vaunted new Focke - Wulf 109 fighters were shot out of the skies.

The Allies lost three planes, including one of those piloted by the Americans.

Spaatz's communiqué was the second on U. S. Air Force operations in Europe. The first disclosed that U. S. army bomber pilots had made their debut in action in this theater by participating in raids on German - occupied territory the fourth of July.

London, July 27 — (AP) — A very heavy force of British bombers attacked the German port of Hamburg last night, it was announced today. Twenty-nine planes were reported lost in the raid.

It was the RAF's most powerful blow against a German city since the assault by more than 1,000 planes on Bremen late last month but informed sources indicated last night's raiders totaled well short of four figures.

It was the fourth attack on Germany in six nights and followed a series of raids on Duisburg.

The raiders were favored by good weather and first reports indicated the assault was highly successful.

Hamburg—the largest seaport on the European continent and the second biggest city in Germany—had been attacked five times previously this year, the last on the night of May 8. Its ship-building yards produce more submarines than any other center in Germany.

The German radio, which said the attack had caused some damage to residences and some civilian casualties, reported 13 British planes were shot down.

Would Remove Personal Income Tax Exemptions

Washington, July 27 — (AP) — A representative of the New York Board of Trade proposed to the Senate Finance committee today that it amend the $5,710,000 tax bill by removing personal income tax exemptions so as to raise an additional $5,000,000,000 revenue.

Suggesting a sales tax as an alternative, M. L. Seidman, chairman of the New York board's taxation committee, urged the imposition of a flat 10 per cent war tax on all net income now free of federal levies because of personal exemptions or credits for dependents.

The New York Board of Trade is a businessmen's organization formed in 1873 to promote trade and commerce. It studies legislative and industrial matters affecting New York.

A survey showed the committee to be widely divided on the sales tax. Calling the House bill, estimated to increase revenues by more than six billions, "totally inadequate," the witness said the measure ought to be broadened sufficiently to reach upwards of 30,000,000 persons instead of the 7,000,000 he said now paid federal tax.

Seidman contended that a house-approved proposal for the advance collection of individual income taxes by 5 per cent deductions at the source on pay checks, interest and dividends would "impose a terrific burden upon business already overburdened by governmental requirements." Business firms would be charged with the collections from payrolls.

Recommending several changes in corporation taxes, the witness urged that combined normal and surtax rates on corporations be reduced from the house bill's figure of 45 percent to 33 1/3 percent if the 90 per cent excess profits tax were retained.

"I propose, for the duration," he said, "a 10 percent war tax on every dollar of net income that is exempt under this bill because of personal exemptions or credit for dependents. This is to be conditioned upon the present normal tax remaining at 4 per cent instead of the proposed 6 per cent. I estimate that the net result would be an additional five billion dollars in revenue. In the alternative, I propose a sales tax to raise about the same amount."

Instead of the payroll collection tax, he proposed that individual income payments be collected in monthly installments beginning next October 1, so that the last quarter of this year's tax would be paid by December and the collection would carry forward from there.

Chairman George (D-Ga) declared that some new form of taxation must be found if the treasury's over-all goal of $9,700,000,000 in new revenue is to be reached. As approved by the House, the measure now before the senate committee provides a return of only $6,271,000,000.

Arranging to hold a closed session of the committee during the day, George told reporters that he would ask members to express their viewpoint on recommendations made by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau for increases totalling approximately $2,500,000,000 over the total voted by the house.

Morgenthau urged the committee to add approximately $1,701,000,000 to the House approved income tax rate structure and to boost estate and gift taxes by $302,000,000 and excise levies by $497,000,000.

Limited Action in Egypt Area —Africa

Cairo, July 27 — (AP) — A heavy force of bombers blasted the Axis supply port of Tobruk again last night, touching off fires and explosions and scoring a direct hit on an enemy ship, British headquarters announced today.

Long range fighters of the RAF meanwhile attacked Axis barges off Sidi Barrani; another enemy supply port on the Egyptian side of the Libyan frontier, a communiqué said.

Low clouds and dust storms were reported to have limited aerial operations yesterday in the battle area, where the Germans and Italians were said to be digging in anticipation of a renewal of the desert battle in which they were driven from ridge positions west of El Alamein last week.

The British reported no plane losses in their attacks on enemy supply ports, but said that another German plane had been shot down last night near Alexandria.

Ground operations yesterday again were limited to minor skirmishes and desultory artillery fire, headquarters said.

Russians Admit Pressure Great Near Tsimlyansk

—Europe

By EDDY GILMORE
Moscow, July 27 — (AP) — The Germans hurried into battle today the men they have massed for the campaigns against the north Caucasus and Stalingrad on the Volga, sending tanks and planes in a furious assault in an effort to widen their footholds south of the Don river near Tsimlyansk.

The Russian Air Force, using some United States bombers and fighters, pounded the moving columns of German men and guns by daylight and under the nearly full moon by night.

The whole steppe land was eerie with flames. Bombs burst over great areas of the gentle, grassy slopes and the plains waist-high with grain.

The Russians reported they were holding their positions against the tremendous onslaught.

The Stalingrad-Tikhoretsk railway, last rail link with the Caucasus, undoubtedly has undergone heavy bombings. There were, however, no reports suggesting that German land forces had reached this line, which runs south of the Don barely 50 miles from Tsimlyansk.

Along the rail line where it comes nearest to the Don river are three typical Cossack villages. They are Kotelnikovo, 100 miles southwest of Stalingrad and 20 miles south of the Don; Sal on the river Sal, 20 miles southeast of Kotelnikovo; and Zimovniki, 20 miles farther southwest along the line and about 180 miles northeast of Tikhoretsk, junction with the main Caucasus railway.

(The German high command said its troops had smashed across the Don and captured the "strongly fortified and tenaciously defended" town of Bataisk, 20 miles south of Rostov on the rail line to the Caucasus oil port of Baku.)

Already, 30 German tanks have been put out of action in one sector alone, the mid-day Russian communiqué said. The tank battle is continuing as the Germans seek to cross the Don simultaneously in several places.

Earlier the Russians had acknowledged the establishment of at least two German bridgeheads in the Tsimlyansk area.

"Our men have pinned down numerically superior enemy forces and are preventing them from advancing," the Russian communiqué said.

At the same time, the Germans hammered mercilessly at Rostov some success and the Russians said that at one point the Nazi drive had broken into the heart of the Soviet defenses at a tremendous cost.

In a few hours, the Russians said the Germans lost 20 tanks and more than 700 men. The Russians continued to insist that the heaviest battles still were being fought on the outskirts of Rostov, although the Germans already have announced capture of the city.

On the Bryansk front, southwest of Moscow, the Russians reported a new surge of activity and claimed the capture of a height "of considerable importance" and the routing of the 10th German mechanized regiment.

Twenty German tanks were reported disabled and 1,250 Germans killed. The rest of the regiment, about 300 men, were taken prisoner, the communiqué said.

Russian dispatches told of great German losses in the fighting to establish and hold her bridgeheads, with Soviet artillery and planes blasting scores of Nazi tanks into the river.

Russians and Germans grappled hand-to-hand on the southern bank of the Don as large units clashed amid smoke and flames and bursting bombs at the water's edge.

All along the 120-mile stretch of the Don from Rostov to Tsimlyansk the fighting raged. Soviet artillery sent tons of shells screaming across the river into German positions on the north bank. It was not known whether the great Russian army of the Caucasus had yet been thrown into the battle, but the din of battle was approaching the oil-rich guards.

The Germans expanded their penetration of Rostov and German tanks and infantrymen were battering their way through the outer streets of the city, which the Russians were defending house by house, Russian dispatches said.

BANNERS FLYING

By MARY RAYMOND

"TIED STORY: Christie Colton becomes engaged to Bart Sniderman of a dance. Just as Bart tells her the wedding must wait until he joins the Air Force, Sandra Snyder, a new girl in town, makes her appearance. Bart has met Sandra on a train, told her of his intention of enlisting before he broke the news to Christie. Christie's jealousy is heightened when she catches Sandra for dancing a provocative tango with her brother, and Bart defends the girl.

JAN FALLS IN LOVE

CHAPTER III

CHRISTIE had hoped she could win Bart over about the flying. But though Bart had listened patiently to her arguments, there had never been a moment when he was near to yielding.

"I know you're good, Christie. I saw you make that three-point landing in a stiffish wind. But maybe your luck wouldn't hold out. You might not know what to do in an emergency. I'd be no good at all, Christie, if I were worrying about you. I've got to have that promise, darling."

She couldn't be angry with Bart. Besides, she wasn't doing all the sacrificing. Bart was putting a brilliant future behind him for the time being. He wasn't asking her to give up something that would ever mean anything to the world. She was just an ordinary flyer who had soloed for the first time today.

"All right, Bart," Christie said. "I'll stay out of the air. But when you're training, will you remember that I have some anxious moments, too?"

"I'll have a steady hand and head, now," Bart said. "You can count on it." He kissed her long and earnestly.

When the door had closed behind Bart, Christie went to her father's study. He was sitting behind his desk, which, in these days of the war emergency, was deep in papers.

"More home work," Christie scolded. "I won't have it! So this is why you skipped the dance."

"Your mother still refuses to believe the headlines," Christopher Colton said. "But I know what they're saying."

"You think the United States will get in? Bart does, too. He's going to an air field. But that's not really what I came to tell you. Some day, I'm going to have a sunny kitchen with little blue pots filled with yellow flowers on the window sill . . . and a perfectly immaculate ice box and blue linoleum printed in neat little squares."

She stooped over and kissed him. "You don't mind if I marry Bart some day, do you? I would, anyway, so you might as well be nice and agreeable about it."

The Shower Springs 4-H club met July 18 at the community house. The meeting was called to order by the president, Willard Rogers, and the secretary read the minutes.

We had plans for the picnic which is to be held, July 30 at the Experiment Station. Each member told what they had done on their 4-H club project.

We had one new member to join. The meeting was closed by singing the pledge and singing "America the Beautiful." After the meeting we played games.

"I think it's a great idea. Only I'm a little confused by all the housewife details. I thought you'd be asking for a blue plane as a wedding gift."

"You can scratch that blue plane off your shopping list. I promised Bart to give up flying."

"So the first thing Bart does is to pin your wings back," Her father was frowning slightly.

"It wasn't such a brilliant idea," Christie said lightly. "I think I'll run up and see Mother."

MRS. COLTON was sitting before her dressing table, her eyes looking through a mask of cold cream.

"Sometimes, I almost wish you had a face like a horse, then you wouldn't spend so much time on it," Christie said from the doorway. "It's just that I came to tell you I'm going to make you a mother-in-law, some day, and I wanted to see how you would take it."

"Well, I naturally thought you would," Mrs. Colton was carefully removing the cream. "I couldn't possibly give my consent until Bart has established himself—"

"I could compete with a good, first-class row," Christie said, turning to go. "But cold logic and cold cream are too much for me." She opened her slim hand, blew a kiss across her palm. "Night. I really like you beautiful."

She crossed the hall and opened a door. Dad, disapproving because he thought Bart had been unfair about those flying lessons; Mother not even interested because her marriage was too far off for troussau buying—

Well, at least she could count on Jan and understanding. Only, it would be hard to tell Jan, in a way, because shy, sweet Jan didn't have anybody in love with her.

"You're awake, Jan?"

"Yes. What hours you do keep, Christie. I've been in ages."

Christie sat down on the bed and surveyed her twin, taking in the brown-gold hair which tumbled around her face, the smoky, gray-blue eyes, so much like her own.

"Secret!" Christie spoke softly, preparing to launch her big surprise.

Then, she saw that Jan was blushing.

"Christie, I never knew anyone like you. Can you read my mind?" Jan was looking off into space with a queer, half-smile on her face, as though her thoughts were traveling along a little mental road that was closed to outsiders.

"Heavens!" Christie thought, "the child's in love—or thinks she is." This was no time to tell her own exciting news.

"CHRISTIE," Janet began, "you know that party that Mother has been begging me to have."

"The party you didn't want, that would bore you to tears—"

"The same one," Janet smiled. "I'll go through it on one condition. There's a man—I met him today. I'll face all those dreadful old people who look me up and down, and a stagline that doesn't see me at all—if I may invite him to the dance."

"He must be the world's wonder," Christie breathed.

"He isn't rich and important," Jan said, musingly. "But you'll like him. He's a chemist and he has a new job at the Wainwright Company. The way we met was funny. He simply walked up to me and said 'You look as though you are having a rather slow time,' and I said, 'I am, but nobody except you has been rude enough to mention it.'"

"Jan! How did you ever get past that brilliant beginning?"

"He thought it was funny. He said what he had said called for a long apology and it would take him all through the supper hour to say it. Oh, Christie, I had a lovely time."

Christie felt her throat tighten. It took such a little to make Jan happy. Just a bit of attention. "Mother will bargain with you," Christie said. She added, slowly: "This man you met—he sounds fair. Maybe a little too sure of himself."

"He is pretty confident," Jan agreed. "From now on out, I'll be bothered about having enough stags. I'd like scads—but Mother says the draft has simply ruined everybody's dance list."

"Now isn't that just too mean of Uncle Sam," Christie said.

"It's just that I don't want to get stuck with Stephen," Janet said, smiling at Christie's elaborate irony.

Stephen. Well, Jan did move fast when she got going. Christie was thoughtful as she peeled off her dress. This was more interesting than her sister had ever shown.

She tried to visualize the type of young man that Janet would pick for a party. A chemist, she had said.

"He'd sound more exciting if he were a combat pilot," Christie thought sleepily, thinking of Bart and planes.

It was simply amazing—Jan falling in love with some young man who spent his time bending over test tubes. He had sounded terribly conceited and arrogant, and he might have long hair and wear thick glasses, too.

New Forestry Firm Organized

Thomas F. Grayson has organized the Grayson Company in Prescott. Mr. Grayson states that it is the purpose of his new firm to cultivate more inches of clear lumber for timber holders, and do it faster, than timber owners can do without forest management. By reason of long experience, Mr. Grayson believes that timber has sustained yield possibilities even on small tracts and that he can start forest owners in the right direction to reap a continuous harvest.

Mr. Grayson is a junior member of the Society of American Foresters and a member of the American Foresters Association. He was very instrumental in bringing about the first two school forests in Arkansas, at Bluff City and Laneburg high schools.

Travelers Sweep Atlanta Series, Increase Lead

By the Associated Press

Little Rock's terrific Travelers showed no mercy to the crumbling Cracker. Their favorite cousins, yesterday and won both ends of the double bill, 10-7 and 4-2. The win killing made it 12 straight this season for the Travelers over Atlanta and showed the Little Rock entry and two and one half games out in front of the Southern Association.

The Cracker, resting fitfully in third position, are a game and a half behind Nashville and the same amount ahead of the fourth place New Orleans Pelicans.

Nashville lost an opportunity to gain two full games on Atlanta and Birmingham also see-sawed their able attraction, with the Smokies taking the first 1-0 and the Barons winning the nightcap 12-0.

Chalanooga won the opener from the Memphis Chickies 6-3 and lost the second 6-4 to hold their position in the standings.

While the terrible Travs shelved Rene Cortes and Vernon Morris of Atlanta for 24 hits, Al Morris coasted to his 11th victory against six losses. He gave up 15 hits but that was good enough to win the slaughter. The second game was an anti-climax with John Dinko giving the Cracker six hits while his mates rapped Pep Rambert for eight. Atlanta scored twice to take the lead in the fourth game of the second game but the Morris Travs would not be denied. They tallied three runs in the last two frames.

New York, July 27—(AP)—Three Negroes are scheduled to make a major league history on Aug. 4 by trying out for positions with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

TAKE CARE WISELY

Purchase wisely what you have to buy. Take care wisely of what you now have. These are two pretty important rules in present wartime economy. And if you are not certain about the quality of the product you are buying, look for reliable labeled products. Many manufacturers are co-operating with the government to prevent careless buying and thoughtless waste by tagging their products informatively—that is, by printing on their labels the exact quality of the product, what may be expected of it, and how to take care of it. For instance, a label on a piece of fabric may indicate the weight of the material, just how colorfast the dyes are, whether it is pre-shrunk and just how to launder it, if possible.

Cardinals Face Brooklyn for a Showdown

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals, about the only outfit able to make things interesting for Brooklyn, wheeled into Ebbets Field today for a three-out showdown with Durocher's

Although the World Series still is more than two months away, both teams and a few thousand interested onlookers should discover in the next three days whether the Cards will be dealt in or out at the windup of the National League campaign.

The last time they visited the sinks of the Gowanus, the Cardinals dropped four games out of five, but they went home and developed a counter-punch that lattered the Dodgers three times in a recent four-game act.

If they can remember how they turned that trick, the Cards may be able to prove to the Dodgers that they intend to battle them down to the wire. But if the Brooks breeze through their toughest rivals since afore, they might as well start planning for October's inter-league classic.

The pace-setters coasted up to the important series yesterday by sopping the Pittsburgh Pirates twice without dipping into the "big four" of their pitching staff, while second-place St. Louis spit with the Boston Braves and sloped back another notch, seven length's behind.

Today the Dodgers planned to lead with their ace, lefty Larry French, who has tested exactly a week.

Nelson Blows Up in Match

By GAYLE TALBOT

Chicago, July 27—(AP)—Byron Nelson, shaken by one of the most amazing collapses in the history of big-time golf, went off "bleakly today to battle Clayton Heafner of Louisville, N. C., in an 18-hole playoff for $2,500 first money in the Tam O'Shanter Open tournament. The starting time was 2 p.m. (CWT).

Another victim of collapse was Gib Sellers, Arkansas trained linksmen, who led the first day's shooting with a 68, added a miserable 78 and finished nine strokes off the lead with 289.

Nelson, the tall ex-Texan, was a weebegone figure, and a lot of exceptionally smart money had been bet overnight that he would lose to Heafner, the blond giant who won the Mahoning Valley tournament at Gerard, Ohio, a few weeks ago with an astonishing 72-hole total of 264.

It was a crusher—what happened to Nelson yesterday. One of the world's great golfers, he shot a miserable 77 over a course whose true par is about 70, to dissipate a lead that had looked impregnable and finish in a tie with Heafner, each with 280 strokes for the four rounds.

Heafner, having posted an ordinary 72 on his final round, and harboring no real hope of anything better than second or third money, became one of possibly 30,000 spectators who watched almost unbelievably as Nelson blew sky-high in the course of a stretch duel with Lawson Little.

Nelson started the day five strokes in front of Heafner, eight ahead of Little. He was considered to be "in," the closing round to be a mere formality. Yet when they began trying to move the record golf crowd out of Tam O'Shanter last night the scoreboard read: Nelson 280, Heafner, 280, Little 281. Nobody else was even close. Harry Nettelblad of Avon, Conn., held the next place all by himself at 284.

Bunched at 287 were Johnny Bulla, Chicago; Willie Goggin, White Plains, N. Y.; Mike Turnesa, Elmford, N. Y., and Dutch Harrison, Harrisburg, Pa.

A 69 was posted by Frank Stranahan of Toledo to give him a 288 aggregate to pace the amateurs competing in the open. Five pros had the same total, including Henry Picard and Chick Harbert. Grouped at 289 were Harold McSpaden, Ky Laffon, Dick Mez, Horton Smith, Sergeant Jim Turnesa, Ben Hogan and Sellers.

Yesterday's Stars

Clyde McCullough, Cubs, and Merrill May and Ben Warren, Phils. McCullough hit three homers in successive times at bat in first game but May won it with Phils to victory in second with homer and single.

Denny Galehouse and George McQuinn, Browns—Former pitched four hit ball in first game and in second latter smashed homer and two doubles, last bringing in winning run in ninth, as Browns beat Red Sox twice.

Max Marshall and Frank McCormick, Reds—Former pitched four runs in first game, three on home run, and later homered for winning run in second as Reds took both games from Giants.

Joe Kuhel and Bob Kennedy, White Sox, a nd Luman Harris, Athletics—Kuhel and Kennedy win first game with triple and single in ninth while Harris pitched four-hit ball to take 10-inning nightcap.

Tom Earley, Braves, and Harry

3-2 and 5-3, scoring all the runs they needed in the first three innings of each game.

Tom Earley came out and stopped the Cardinals cold as he pitched the Boston Braves to a 5-2 decision in the first game, but the Cardinals took the second, 5-3, with the help of some nifty relief nurling by Harry Gumbert.

Earley relieved Al Javery with none out in the first and gave up only hit in nine innings.

Cincinnati regained third place by whipping the New York Giants, 6-2 and 2-1, and dropping them back into the four-spot. Max Marshall's three-run homer was the big blow of the first game while a four-bagger by Frank McCormick decided the issue in the second.

At Philadelphia, three home runs in one game by Catcher Clyde McCullough couldn't keep the Phils from turning back the Chicago Cubs, 4-3 and 6-1. McCullough, who had hit only two homers all season, banged three four-baggers in succession in the first game.

In the American League, the New York Yankees downed the Detroit Tigers, 5-2, in the only single game of the day, but added a game and a half to their long lead with the help of the St. Louis Browns, who took a pair from the second-place Boston Red Sox, dropping them 13 games behind.

Denny Galehouse pitched the Browns to a 9-2 decision in the first game, while the heavy hitting of George McQuinn carried the Browns through, 4-3, in the nightcap. Ted Williams of the Red Sox hit a home run in each contest to regain solid possession of the major league leadership in that art with 21.

Sid Hudson of the Washington Senators blanked the Cleveland Indians, 2-0, in the first game, but the Tribe bounced back in the second, 7-1, with Bus Mills producing a triple and three singles.

The Chicago White Sox and Philadelphia Athletics split, Chicago winning the opener for Ted Lyons, 2-1, on a triple by Joe Kuhel and a single by Bob Kennedy in the ninth and Philadelphia taking the second, 3-2 in 10 innings.

Gumbert, Cardinals—Each pitched one hit ball in relief as their teams split, former entering first game with none out in first inning and latter going into second in sixth with two on and none out.

Sid Hudson, Senators, and Bus Mills, Indians—Former pitched shutout ball in first game but latter led tribe to victory in second with triple and three singles.

Joe Medwick and Dolph Camilli, Dodgers—Medwick's two doubles accounted for all Brooklyn's runs in first game and Camilli hit triple, double and single in second of double win over Pirates.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND SENATE OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS, A MAJORITY OF BOTH HOUSES AGREEING THERETO: THAT THE FOLLOWING IS HEREBY PROPOSED AS AN AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS, AND THE SAME BEING SUBMITTED TO THE ELECTORS OF THE STATE FOR APPROVAL OR REJECTION AT THE NEXT GENERAL ELECTION FOR SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES, IF A MAJORITY OF THE ELECTORS VOTING THEREON ADOPT SUCH AMENDMENT, THE SAME SHALL BECOME A PART OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS, TO-WIT:

Section 1. Whenever in any county where there is located a public hospital owned by such county or by any municipal corporation therein, whether such hospital be operated by such county or municipal corporation or by a benevolent association as the agent or lessee of such county or municipal corporation, one hundred or more electors of such county shall file a petition with the county judge asking that an annual tax on real and personal property in such county be levied for the purpose of maintaining, operating and supporting such hospital and shall specify a rate of taxation not exceeding one mill on the dollar of the assessed value of real and personal property in the county. The question as to whether such tax shall be levied shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such county at a general election. Such petition must be filed at least thirty days prior to the election at which it will be submitted to the voters. The county judge upon filing of such petition shall notify the county board of election commissioners thereof and the county board of election commissioners shall cause the question to be placed upon the ballot in substantially the following form:

FOR a mill tax on real and personal property to be used for maintenance, operation and support of a public hospital.

AGAINST a Mill tax on real and personal property to be used for maintenance, operation and support of a public hospital.

Section 2. The election commissioners shall certify to the county judge the result of the vote and if a majority of the qualified electors voting on the question at such election vote in favor of the specified tax then it shall thereafter be continually levied and collected as other general taxes of such county are levied and collected. The result of the election shall be proclaimed by the county judge by publication for one insertion in some newspaper published and having a bona fide circulation in such county. The result so proclaimed shall be conclusive unless attacked in the courts within thirty days and after the election it shall not be competent to attack the result thereof on the ground that any signers of the petition were not qualified electors. The proceeds of any tax voted shall upon the settlement of the collecting officer be paid by the treasurer of the county to the treasurer of such hospital to be used by such treasurer in the maintenance, operation and support of such institution; provided that any county where there may be more than one hospital qualified to receive the proceeds of such tax, the quorum court at its meeting for the purpose of adopting the county's budget, shall provide for the apportionment of the proceeds of said tax between the institutions so qualified according to the respective needs.

Section 3. Whenever one hundred or more electors of any county having a hospital tax in force shall file a petition with the county judge asking that such tax be raised, reduced or abolished, the question shall be submitted to the qualified electors at a general election. Such petition must be filed at least thirty days prior to the election at which it will be submitted to the voters. The ballot shall follow, as far as practicable, the form set out in Section 1 hereof, and the result shall be certified and proclaimed as provided in Section 2 hereof and shall be conclusive in like manner. The tax shall be lowered, raised or abolished as the case may be, according to the majority of qualified electors voting on the question at such election, provided, however, that it shall not be raised to more than one mill on the dollar. If lowered or raised the revised tax shall thereafter be continually levied and collected and the proceeds used in the manner and for the purposes provided in Section 2 hereof.

Section 4. This amendment shall be self executing and shall become a part of the constitution of the State of Arkansas when approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon at the next general election.

Witness my hand and Seal this 30th day of April, 1942.

Message Of Appreciation---

IN these troublesome times I am grateful to the thousands of loyal patriotic citizens who are co-operating in the various defense programs, civilian defense, scrap metal and rubber drives and all other activities which have for their purpose the helping of Arkansas in its just contribution toward the war effort.

Arkansas' part in promoting the war activities is a tribute to both labor and industry. In June we led the nation by placing 82,000 people in employment. Our industrial program, together with the development of our natural resources, has made Arkansas the bright spot of the nation.

The fact that Arkansas has been allotted $350,000,000 in defense industries, two large army camps, twelve flying fields, with more industries and other expansion programs to follow—all of this didn't just happen accidentally. It came by reason of complete co-operation with our Senatorial and Congressional delegations and with the assistance of thousands of loyal, patriotic citizens.

Because of the manifold duties of the Governor's Office which have been increased at least ten times because of the war, I could not possibly have conducted a campaign without neglecting my duties. I have felt it was your wish that I stick to my post in these critical times. I shall continue to give my best efforts toward advancing the interests of the people of Arkansas.

You have been good to me and in return I have devoted all my energy, time and thought in serving you faithfully. I shall appreciate your continued support.

I trust that every qualified elector will go to the polls and vote on election day. It is our duty to do so. Regardless of your choice of candidates, I urge you to go to the polls and exercise your right of franchise.

Hardships of Americans in Japan Related by Newsmen

By the Associated Press
Accounts of a Japanese face-saving effort that backfired, of a vast web of Oriental intrigue with which Japan prepared for her conquests and of bitter suffering of American and other nationals who fell into Japanese hands were given over the week-end by Associated Press correspondents newly freed from Japanese detention.

Their dispatches came from Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East Africa, where the exchange of some 1,000 citizens of the United States and other American nations for a similar number of Japanese diplo-omats and their nationals has just taken place. The liner Gripsholm, now bearing the Americans—diplomats, newspapermen, missionaries and others—is to sail for New York tomorrow.

The face-saving attempt which flopped was relayed by Max Hill, chief of the Associated Press Bureau in Tokyo when war came.

After first trumpeting to the world that nine of the American bombers which raided Tokyo April 18 were knocked down, the Japanese reduced their claims to one and put the "wreckage" on display

In Tokyo to prove it. But Japanese who came to gaze at the wreckage, sure enough, the red, white and blue of the U. S. Air Force which had been freshly daubed on still was wet.

Hill told of long weeks he spent in detention in freezing weather, bereft of his shoes and with scant food; of the taunt of a sullen guard: "American! This is Japan!"

Relman Morin, Associated Press chief of bureau in Tokyo from 1937 to 1940 who traveled through the southeast part of Asia on a pre-war assignment, told of the working of Japanese—Thai intrigue and fifth column activities which laid the groundwork for Japan's quick successes in Malaya and Burma.

Morin said the Japanese intelligence service learned of British military dispositions in Malaya down to the last detail, and had special landing forces practicing on the French Indo-China coast long before the Dec. 7 attack. The invaders through the jungle, forcing the British to retire continually to prevent severance of their communications in Burma, he said, it was the same story.

A picture of the plight of some 2,000 Americans left in Japanese-occupied China was presented by J. D. White, former Associated Press correspondent at Peiping who was in Shanghai when Japan attacked Pearl Harbor.

In Shanghai, where there are 1,500 Americans, White said that most of them were well and provided with funds when their personal resources became exhausted but that it was feared conditions would soon deteriorate.

Aside from the Americans at Shanghai, White said there were 250 at Peiping and 275 at Tientsin, where their own associations maintained conditions similar to those in Shanghai.

In all, he said 32 American civilians were detained by the Japanese at Shanghai but were later released.

White said the most serious case was that of J. B. Powell, editor of the China Weekly Review, who was held from Dec. 20 until shortly before the Americans were put aboard the exchange ship.

Powell, normally a 180-pounder was reported now to weigh around 75 pounds, and had all but the heels of his feet as a result of beriberi and gangrene which developed during cold, solitary confinement, inadequate food and lack of medical care until recently.

An American doctor was called when the Japanese realized Powell's life was in danger, White said.

At Peiping he said the Japanese arrested and still hold John Leighton Stuart, 68, president of Yenching university, and Dr. Henry Houghton, Trevor Bowen and Dr. Isadore Shapper of Peiping union medical college. The Japanese declared the two institutions, both American, abolished.

Mud - Slinging in Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood — The greatest mass mud-slinging Hollywood ever saw is going on today for a movie called "No Time for Love," and a bad time is being had by all, including Claudette Colbert.

It's all on account of the sandhogs now tunnelling away under New York's East River, which gave somebody an idea for a story which somebody else decided should be put on the screen.

Paramount's tunnel is on a sound stage and it isn't all there, just sections of it, made out of old wood and paper and some steel — just enough steel to hold back the mud, which isn't mud at all but is a great deal muddier.

It seems that when sandhogs go tunnelling, one of the big obstacles they have to meet is a vein of gooey, uncooperative mud. Sandhog Fred MacMurray is in pretty bad repute on account of some pictures he's made.

Photographer Colbert has published, so Claudette smuggles herself into the tunnel and gets pictures proving that Fred's freezing machine — which makes a sort of mud ice cream and lets the work proceed — will really function. This is well and good, only just as Claudette gets her snapshots the wall behind her caves in under unfrozen mud pressure, and down goes Claudette, swimming in goo.

Claudette, her hair freshly "done" in tight ringlets, stood on a sandbag off the set and got a preview of her fate. Up camera way Mitchell Leisen, warring trunks and high rubber boots, directed proceedings which seemed to be mainly concerned with keeping back the mud until time to shoot. Various trunks-clad, hip-booted brawnies lent their weight to this task.

Leo Vance, the construction engineer who planned it all from photos of the original, said there were 75,000 pounds of goo behind that shield.

Vance had rigged up an elevator to haul the goo up to the special tank and pour it down. The goo was mineral gelatin unflavored.

We were standing there in our capacity of innocent bystander when the goo departed from script and came through as a small avalanche, knocking the brawny muscle-men around like paper dolls, sprawling two or three into the muddy water, and sending us all scrambling for higher ground.

That was where Claudette came in, glamorous in slacks, for her preview. She sought the dryness of a stack of sandbags, took a good look at drenched, mud-splattered Director Leisen, and chuckled just as heartily as if she hadn't read the script where it says what happens to Claudette.

But she had. When we remarked it was nice to have known her all these years, she chuckled again and said, "Sh-h-h! They're using a double for me."

Even so, she'd have to be generously dunked in the goo, and she said she wasn't exactly looking forward to it.

"But it won't be any worse than DeMille's milk," said DeMille's one-time exotic bathor, Cleopatra.

Experiments to Fight Misquitos

Little Rock, July 27 —(AP)—The Health department malaria control division will use novel methods to combat the mosquito menace in the vicinity of the Pine Bluff Arsenal and the Stuttgart and Newport air training schools, state health officer W. B. Grayson said today.

Northeast of Pine Bluff division workers will blast out a one mile ditch with dynamite this week to allow Yell lake to drain into the Arkansas river. Dr. Grayson said the 150 to 200 acre body of water was a major breeding ground. The health officer said the blasting method was chosen because the division was unable to obtain heavy machinery for drainage work.

In the vicinity of Stuttgart and Newport an experimental malaria control program designed to destroy the adult mosquito rather than the larvae will be started in a few days.

Dr. Grayson said this method of spraying about houses and barns rather than spraying on breeding grounds was decided upon because the water area in those rice growing sections was too large and because it was feared that the insecticide might damage the rice crops.

Burning of Highway to Be Investigated

Little Rock, July 27 —(AP)— Highway Director W. W. Mitchell said today he would ask District Engineer Kent Brown of Hope to investigate reported burning of highway right-of-way on U. S. 87 west of Hope in which highway beautifying shrubbery was destroyed.

Alex H. Washburn, editor of the Hope Star, reported that Elm trees planted there several years ago as a highway beautification project had been damaged and crepe myrtle killed.

Mitchell said the fire might have been started by a cigarette carelessly tossed from a passing automobile. He said the highway department encouraged highway beautification and for this reason did not believe that the blaze was started by highway crews.

When he was game warden near Rawlins, Wyo., Tom Reese disguised himself as a scarecrow to catch sage hen poachers.

Gordon Courts Breakdowns

By GEORGE TUCKER

New York — Max Gordon, who has been courting nervous breakdowns, lo, these many years by hitching his dough to unpredictable star-wagons, certainly can never be accused of following a set pattern in the theater. The press clippings that trace his career along Queer Street give ample evidence of these points:

1. Sentiment is a wonderful thing if you can afford it, but to hell with it if you're looking for a play that will make a little money.

2. Subject matter, to him, is of no concern whatever. He would as lief produce a drama that delineated the history of land as a honeysuckle romance in which boy meets girl — if it satisfied the public.

3. Only rarely has he presented an attraction to the public that did not justify itself in one way or another.

Let us consider the little matter of "Carmen Jones" as a case in point. It is possible that you have never heard of "Carmen Jones" — but you will. Do you recall a popular song of several seasons back that recounted the arrival of Franklin D. Roosevelt Jones?

"Carmen Jones," then, is to be Oscar Hammerstein's adaptation of the opera Carmen. When Max Gordon gets through with his hocus-poos, this fall and releases it to the Broadway papers it will retain its full Bizet score. But it will be peopled with an all-Negro cast, and the locale will have been transferred from Spain to South Carolina. It takes a lot of courage to sink bales of course folding money into a gamble like this. If the public doesn't care for it, his money is gone forever. It's a crazy, zany ambition that persuades a man to become a producer anyway. You work yourself into a fever through months of preparation, and then you bank the dice against the wall. In that one cast, you win or lose.

Mr. Gordon is going to toss the dice, first, with a down-yonder version of Bizet's opera. Then he plans to bring Harpo and Groucho Marx to Broadway, but in separate vehicles. Groucho he will present in "Franklin Street," and Harpo he will turn loose in a revival of a really great play, "Yellow Jack." I remember when "Yellow Jack," with Walter Huston, was first played in New York. It was adapted from a chapter of Paul De Kruif's book, "Microbe Hunters." De Kruif was on hand for rehearsals, but everybody mispronounced his name so miserably that finally he tacked this little rhyming couplet on the backstage bulletin board:

Paul de Kruff

Rhymes with fire.

Not content with three stabs at new laurels, or disaster, Max Gordon also has a fourth play to produce, but this, as yet, has no title.

His current topic is "My Sister Eileen," now in its second year on Broadway. A his writing he is in Hollywood supervising the film-

Holt Gets Backing In Garland County.

Special to the Gazette.
Hot Springs, July 24.—Garland county's political organization is preparing to go all out for Attorney General Jack Holt, and he will receive the unanimous endorsement of county and city officials at a meeting to be held at the city hall tomorrow, it was reported today.

The meeting was called by Mayor McLaughlin, who is directing the campaign in Garland county for Mr. Holt.

Leo McLaughlin, mayor of Hot Springs, and his gang have gone "all out" for Jack Holt. But the decent citizens of Arkansas will never let Leo McLaughlin and his machine force a candidate for United States Senator down their throats.

Repudiation of this unholy alliance is the duty of every voter at Tuesday's primary.

If you live on a farm and have as yet no method of disposing of scrap, phone or write your County War Board or consult your farm implement dealer.

OTHER VITAL MATERIALS NEEDED AND HOW TO DISPOSE OF THEM

Waste Fats To help relieve shortage of fats and oils. Needed for glycerine to make explosives. Save pan and broiler drippings and deep fats after you've got all the cooking good from them. Strain into wide-mouthed tin can, that is spotlessly clean. Keep in refrigerator or cool, dark place until you have collected a pound or more. Then sell to your meat dealer.

TIN TUBES — Tooth paste, cosmetic and shaving cream tubes. Turn in at drug store when you purchase new supply.

TIN CANS — Wanted only in certain areas accessible to detinning plants, as announced locally.

WASTE PAPER — Needed only when announced by Local Salvage Committee.

NOT NEEDED (at this time) — Razor blades and glass.

We are facing a crisis in our war production program. Unless we salvage at least 6,000,000 additional tons of scrap iron and steel promptly, and great quantities of rubber and other materials, our boys may not get all the fighting weapons they need—in time . . .

Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

The Junk which you collect is bought by industry from scrap dealers at established, government-controlled prices.
